DU 12 AU 19 JUIN

19 French and American short films will compete for the Audience Award and the Jury Prize. The Short Film Jury will be chaired by Katell Quillévéré. The French filmmaker will have by her side:

- Hubert Charuel, director;
- Esther Garrel, actress;
- Christophe Taudière, head of the short film section of France Télévisions;
- Arnaud Valois, actor.

The opening night will begin with the Parisian premiere of John Cameron Mitchell's film, How to Talk to Girls at Parties and will launch this film week at Gaumont Champs-Elysees. The evening will continue at the House of Denmark - Flora Danica, with a concert of punk band FAIRE.

The closing night will take place at PublicisCinémas with the French premiere of David and Nathan Zellner's film Damsel, with their presence, followed by a great party at the Élyséum with Arnaud Rebotini, French 79 and Piège à garçon's DJ sets.

This seventh edition will also introduce you to The Eyeslicer, a mind-melting variety TV show designed to introduce audiences to the most daring American filmmaking happening right now. The ten episodes of this first season will be presented in French premiere. From vérité documentary to amateur computer animation; surreal horror to remix video art; haunted high school yearbooks to Sasquatch birth rituals; time traveling cats to live web streams of your own birth -- "if it seems too strange for Netflix, chances are you'll see it on The Eyeslicer."

For the second year in a row, a daring set of shows will give prominence to the new Parisian indie music scene and allow festival-goers to meet every night on the festival rooftop, the most beautiful terrace of Paris, to listen to Radio Elvis, Raphaële Lannadère, Aloïse Sauvage, Tim Dup, Pépite, Vendredi Sur Mer, and the DJ sets by John Cameron Mitchell, Karl Planck and Piège à garçon.

In short, more than 60 films and nearly 80 screenings will take place in all the theaters of the Champs-Élysées Avenue : Balzac, Gaumont Champs-Élysées, Lincoln, PublicisCinémas and UGC George-V.
